Component Mission:

The National Counterterrorism Center (NCTC) leads our nation's effort to combat terrorism at home and abroad by analyzing the threat, sharing that information with our partners, and integrating all instruments of national power to ensure unity of effort. The Center serves as the primary organization in the United States Government (USG) for analyzing and integrating all intelligence possessed or acquired by the USG pertaining to terrorism and counterterrorism, and its Director serves as the Counterterrorism Mission Manager. NCTC also serves as the central and shared knowledge bank on known and suspected terrorists and international terrorist groups, as well as their goals, strategies, capabilities, and networks of contacts and support. In addition, NCTC conducts strategic operational planning for counterterrorism activities, coordinating and integrating the efforts of departments and agencies across the Federal Government.

Major Duties and Responsibilities (MDRs):

- Lead and oversee highly technical individuals and teams focusing on: applying established methodologies (both quantitative and qualitative) to identify patterns and relationships in large data sets; conducting complex mathematical, statistical, geospatial modeling, or other data-driven problem-solving analysis to address business operations or intelligence questions; identifying needs and collaborating with collectors and analysts to determine the data needed to address intelligence problems; and incorporating insights and findings into an extensive range of authoritative, sophisticated intelligence products. Products range from those that provide direct mission support to those that provide needed capability to peers and colleagues. Work includes design, modification, and/or use of scientific computing, programming, and mathematics.
- Manage the full range of data scientists to support employee and product development. Guide the development and growth of the data science cadre.

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL INTELLIGENCE

- Provide strategic leadership, vision, and direction for NCTC's strategy for advancing data science to include overseeing the development of technical, analytic, and information policy plans and strategies.
- Provide leadership and expertise in the development of a wide range of analytical tools that add value, rigor, and precision to the identification of current and potential intelligence issues and collection strategies; lead or manage the collection and preparation of data in order to build data sets for databases and effectively direct teams using programming languages for simulation analysis.
- Lead, cultivate, and maintain positive customer relationships in order to gather input and feedback for addressing analytical issues; provide effective briefings to senior internal and external customers on the analytical content of complex intelligence products and the development of future analytical tools and methodologies.
- Lead a team of professional staff and assess performance, collaborate and oversee goal setting, and provide feedback on personal development.

Mandatory and Educational Requirements:

- Superior ability to represent the office and management on sensitive, controversial, or difficult issues; superior ability to clearly present information through the spoken or written word, interpret complex, technical information, and communicate effectively with customers.
- Superior ability to plan, organize, delegate and/or implement strategic initiatives in support of program requirements; superior ability to contribute to the development of strategic and operational plans; superior ability to establish and implement short- and long-term operational goals and objectives.
- Superior situational judgment and superior interpersonal, negotiating, and networking skills to work collaboratively and build strong team relationships across occupations and organizational boundaries with customers, service providers, and staff.
- Demonstrated ability to lead teams in order to meet objectives on both long and short-suspense time schedules, with little guidance, including those involving multiple stakeholder groups and complex problem sets.

Desired Requirements

- Experience: 15 years of related experience is preferred. Education: Bachelor's degree. Certifications/Licenses: Depending upon assignment, may require Contracting Officer Technical Representative certification.
